Effective Date: 01/09/2024

This Cookie Policy explains how Clonely.io ("we," "our," "us," "Company") uses cookies and similar tracking technologies when you visit or use our website. The purpose of using cookies is to enhance your browsing experience, personalize content and ads, and analyze our website traffic. All data processing is in accordance with the laws of the British Virgin Islands (BVI) and any applicable international regulations.

1. What Are Cookies?

Cookies are small text files that websites store on your computer or device when you visit them. These cookies help the website remember your preferences (such as login information or language settings) for future visits.

There are different types of cookies:

- Session Cookies: These are temporary cookies stored on your device during your browsing session and are automatically deleted once you close your browser.
- Persistent Cookies: These cookies remain on your device for a longer period or until you manually delete them.

2. Types of Cookies We Use

Clonely.io uses the following types of cookies:

- Essential Cookies: These cookies are necessary for the website to function properly, allowing you to navigate and access key features such as secure login. Without these cookies, the website may not work as intended.
- Performance Cookies: These cookies collect information about how users interact with the website, such as which pages are visited most frequently or if errors occur. We use this data to improve website performance and user experience.
- Functional Cookies: These cookies remember your choices (e.g., language preference or region) and enhance the website's personalization capabilities, enabling it to offer you a more tailored experience.
- Targeting or Advertising Cookies: These cookies gather information about your browsing habits to display advertisements relevant to your interests. These cookies may be shared with third-party advertising networks.

3. Third-Party Cookies

Some cookies are placed by third parties, such as analytics or advertising partners. These third parties may also use cookies for their purposes, such as analyzing traffic or displaying ads. We do not control these third-party cookies, and we recommend reviewing their privacy policies.

Examples of third-party services we use:

- Google Analytics: We use this service to monitor website traffic and gather insights for improvement. Google Analytics has its cookies, which are subject to Google's privacy policy.

4. How to Control and Manage Cookies

Most web browsers automatically accept cookies, but you can modify your browser settings to decline cookies or notify you when a cookie is set. Please note that if you choose to disable cookies, some features of our website may not function properly.

Below are instructions for managing cookies in common browsers:

- Google Chrome: Settings > Privacy and Security > Cookies and other site data
- Mozilla Firefox: Settings > Privacy & Security > Cookies
- Microsoft Edge: Settings > Privacy, search, and services

5. Your Consent

When you first visit Clonely.io, a notice will inform you about our use of cookies and ask for your consent. By continuing to use our website, you consent to our use of cookies unless you adjust your browser settings or withdraw your consent through cookie preferences.

6. Data Transfer and Security

Your data may be processed in the British Virgin Islands (BVI) and other countries where our processors are located. We handle all data securely and in compliance with applicable laws. While cookies themselves are not considered personal data, in some cases, they may be linked to personally identifiable information. In such cases, our [Privacy Policy] applies.

7. Changes to This Cookie Policy

We may update this Cookie Policy from time to time to reflect changes in the law or our operations. Changes will be posted on this page, and we encourage you to review this policy periodically for updates.
